In partnership with the
U.S. House STEM Education Caucus
Invite you to a briefing highlighting

The Importance of STEM Education to Healthcare

The briefing will explore the contributions and necessity of STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) education from the perspectives of different health sectors, underscoring the cross-sector need for increased STEM graduates. Panelists will discuss:

- Current challenges in hiring STEM grads,
- The necessity for a strong STEM pipeline,
- Their efforts to address these challenges, and
- How the healthcare industry drives job growth.
