Focusing Diverse Voices on Achievable Solutions

- HLC members, representing all sectors, used NDHI initiative to focus on innovation and value
  - Identify and address barriers to patient-centered innovation
  - Immediately address quality, cost challenges
- Avoid partisan battles and achieve progress on viable, achievable, meaningful objectives

The NDHI Process

- March 2015 Summit on Innovation and Value involved leaders from over 70 organizations
  - Healthcare sectors, patients, employers, academia and federal government (HHS, CMS, FDA, ONCHIT)
- Led to formation of three workgroups
  - Patient engagement and adherence
  - Data strategy and interoperability
  - Outdated and ineffective laws and regulations
- Workgroups deliberated throughout 2015

Six Steps to Transform Healthcare Now

- Improved care coordination to address chronic disease
- Improvements in the federal Medication Therapy Management program
- Accelerated health information interoperability, driven by private sector innovation
- Common-sense FDA reforms to speed medicines, technologies to patients
- Changes to laws and regulations that are impeding multi-sector collaboration
- Improved access to patient data for quality healthcare, medical research

Next Steps Toward Progress

- Meetings with members of Congress, Obama Administration to discuss action
- The six steps:
  - Lend themselves to bipartisan support
  - Won't be tied up in ideological differences
  - Can be implemented through legislation, regulatory action and private sector initiative
  - Will improve quality, cost-efficiency of healthcare
